F.H. BRUNDLE

SERVING THE TRADE SINCE 1889

Having served his apprenticeship as an ironmonger in Canterbury, young Frederick Henry Brundle moved to London to work for a company supplying the tea trade.

It was not long before he spotted an opportunity and, with a loan from his father, set up a business supplying nails and ironmongery to the booming packing case industry. He also added to his range, horse shoes and farriers sundries. Throughout London, the name of F.H. Brundle became synonymous with quality and competitive prices.

As trade changed over the years, F.H. Brundle has adapted to meet the needs of its customers. The business has added thousands of new product lines into its range which now comprises of over 10,000 stocked products. In the 1980s it became apparent to Richard Brundle that we couldn't service the UK from a single site in the middle of London. So, in 1988 the doors to a second branch were opened, in Nottingham. Since then a total of six branches across the UK have opened, with plans to open more, in new locations.

The transport fleet has now grown to a total of over 60 vehicles of all sizes operating across the UK, including smaller transit vans for deliveries to customers with restricted access. Artic lorries, that can carry up to 44 tonnes, operate overnight to feed the branches from our Midlands distribution hub, giving us complete control on delivering anything from the smallest package, to our largest steel section. Still, after many years, F.H. Brundle offers free delivery on orders over £150*.

“...NOW COMPRISES OF OVER 10,000 STOCKED PRODUCTS.”

Everything you see in the catalogue is stocked within the group. If the product is not stocked locally, it can be brought into a branch overnight. F.H. Brundle now operates from over 500,000 square feet of warehousing, with all branches operating overhead cranes, cutting lines, specialised trade counters for collections and showrooms to browse. Local sales desks mean our customers get a friendly, personal service from the sales teams in the branches who are very knowledgeable and have generally worked within the business for several years.

Online ordering has come a long way since our first ecommerce site was launched in 2009 and although much has changed, you still need to be able to find what you need and buy it. Our website provides access to technical drawings, test data and advice on how to use our products. With thousands of hits per month, customers daily rely on the website to check prices, order products 24 hours a day, track order status and look at their account history.

Since 2012 a dedicated design office was opened that enabled the development of many new products shown in this catalogue, which are exclusive to F.H. Brundle. Using the latest technology such as 3D printing to produce prototypes, enables us to reduce the time taken to create and launch new products with stunning 3D renders. The design office has also developed bespoke software for the industry, such as Design Studio and Liveconfigurator™. Recent upgrades have seen the addition of stairways, bespoke glass configurations, along with a decking calculator, all designed to make your life simpler.

As a business, we offer extremely competitive pricing, compatible with quality and service. Our warehousing facilities allow large quantities to be purchased, offering huge savings to our customers. Where possible quantity discounts may also be available. If you don't see exactly what you want in our catalogue, please ask; with access to hundreds of factories across the world, we can always source something to your exact requirements.

If you would like us to stock any products, or ranges that you feel will complement what we already offer, please let us know; we have a long-running suggestions scheme which offers some great prizes for customer ideas that are adopted, many of which have now been included in this catalogue.

The business will soon be entering its 133rd year and we are always grateful to our customers and their employees for the loyalty, feedback and advice which over the years has allowed us to build a family business of which I am extremely proud. I would like to add a huge thank you for your continued support during these challenging times, as we strive to continue to provide our customers with a quality service for many years to come.

What are CAD files?

A DWG file is a 2D or 3D drawing created using a professional CAD program. It contains vector image data and metadata that CAD applications use to load a drawing.

A STEP file, which stands for “Standard for the Exchange of Product data file”, is the most common neutral 3D CAD file type used to share designs between CAD systems.

Benefits of using CAD files

Our component CAD files are free to download and ready to implement into your CAD designs. Using our CAD files helps speed up the design process, creating accurate drawings and models.
